Limit Is Reached For Night Games

Tampa, Fla., March 26, (BUP) —Powell Crosley, Jr., who was actually more instrumental than any other man in bringing night baseball into the majors, predicted to-day that the National and American Leagues have reached the saturation point in the number of after-dark contests.

"They have roughly scheduled a third of their total number of games at night for the coming season and I believe that in all the traffic can bear," Crosley said.
