

W. M. Packer, Civic Leader, Auto Dealer

William M. Packer, 75, founder and president of the Packer Pontiac Co., an automobile dealership, and president and chief promoter of the Hundred Club of Detroit, died Wednesday at Henry Ford Hospital after a brief illness.

The Hundred Club, founded in 1952, presently has 500 members. It provides cash gifts to widows and children of policemen and firemen killed in the line of duty in 124 communities in Wayne, Oakland, and Macomb counties.

SINCE ITS inception, the Hundred Club has paid out $600,000 in benefits. Mr. Packer has been the club's only president.

He initiated a policy of paying off mortgages on homes and all outstanding debts of officers and firemen killed in action. Under his leadership the club became nationally recognized for its civic responsibility.

Mr. Packer was instrumental in organizing 39 similar clubs in other major U.S. cities, including New York, Chicago and Miami.

At the time of his death, Mr. Packer also was president of the Detroit Streets and Traffic Commission.

Always interested in civic affairs, he served as a director of the Greater Detroit Chamber of Commerce and the Better Business Bureau for 20 years. He was a former member of the Detroit Aviation Commission, which now runs Detroit City Airport, and was an outspoken advocate of a metropolitan airport authority during his tenure.

MR. PACKER learned to fly in 1928 and had logged 12,700 flying hours. He held private, commercial and instructor pilot licenses and had served as president of the Aero Club of Michigan and the Sportsman Pilots Association.

Mr. Packer began his business career as a salesman, and at 32 became Chevrolet Division's Southern California zone manager. At 40, he resigned from General Motors Corp. to become vice-president of distribution for Packard Motor Car Co.

During World War II Mr. Packer donated his private plane to the U.S. Air Force and took charge of Packard-Rolls Royce aircraft engine production.

After the war, he resigned to become a General Motors car dealer. Packer Corp. has auto dealerships in Detroit, Flint and Miami and an auto leasing firm in Detroit.
